Mid-Week Update: July 6, 2023

Final Edition

Putting COVID Behind Us

Likely no one would want to go back through the COVID pandemic again. We are all glad to be through that and hope not to have to repeat it. It is time to put it behind us and hold on to lessons learned.

Our Mid-Week communication (this one) began early in the COVID pandemic as a way for an additional “touch point” since we were not meeting in person. It served a purpose to keep us updated on things and to provide some encouragement. It has served us well.

Now that we are beyond COVID, we don't believe the Mid-Week is needed any longer. This will be the last Mid-Week communication we will be producing. We are now enjoying more interactions and in-person gatherings. Communications come through our Sunday bulletin and face-to-face communications we are having.

By all means, if there are question about anything, remember that Leanna is in the church office each morning (4 days a week this summer and 5 days a week the rest of the year) to field questions along with the many other activities she does. Don't hesitate to call about anything pertaining to church activities.

May God bless us as we move more and more toward thrive as Christ's body being salt and light in a tasteless and dark world.
